Will Endeavor to Advance Bedford's
Business Interests.

The Board of Trade met at Cham-

The Municipal Committee reported

Altoona and Along Line of Midland Coming
During Last Week in May.

At a conference in the rooms of the local Board of Trade yesterday afternoon preliminary arrangements were made for the coming, on the opening of the Midland Railroad, of former Bedford Countians now residing in Altoona and along the line of the road. The date will be either May 27 or 31.

The Altoona delegation consisted of H. W. Walter, W. J. Heinsling, L.
Z. Replogle and W. S. Lee. The visitors placed the number likely to take advantage of the excursion at from 1,500 to 2,000 people.

This will be a gala day for Old Bedford and all necessary arrangements will be made to take care of the crowd, which will be the largest panied by a band and the local Board helping hand in making this a pleasant occasion for the visitors from Blair as well as those who come in from over the county. The delegation from Altoona will consist of business and professional men and men from the shops and all walks of life.

Let Bedford wake up.

TROLLEY REVIVED

Survey Completed—New Road Will
Be Operated by Gasolene.

The Altoona Gazette of May 3 contained the following article, which will no doubt prove of great interest to our readers:

"After being kept subrosa for the past several months, the Altoona,
Holidaysburg and Bedford Springs Railroad is again being boomed and present indications are that within the next two months large forces of men will be at work excavating for the road bed to extend from this city to Bedford.

"The work of Frederick W. Patterson, who came to this city about two years ago to incite interest in the project for a road between the two places, has been taken up by Mr.
Tate, who now fills the position of chief engineer for the new company, with offices in the Altoona Trust Building, and with Mr. Patterson the work is furthered every day.

"About two weeks ago the surveying of the road was completed and engineers are now busy preparing a map of the proposed route, which is to pass through the section of the country between the city of Altoona and Bedford on the eastern side of the mountain. Persons who have investigated the proposed route and have compared it with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's Midland road, claim that the proposed road runs through a more productive country than that of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"When the proposition was first started it was the intention to construct an electric railway but the past several months plans have been changed and it has been definitely settled that the new road will be a gasolene railroad, and already engines are being especially designed.

"While difficulties seemed to arise in the path of the proposed road the promoters, some of whom are local business men, have successfully combated with them and their efforts are now nearing success.

"As soon as the maps of the proposed route are completed, which is estimated to be in about a month, bids will be advertised for, for the construction of the road bed and it is estimated that within the next two months forces of men will be starting to work on the road's construction.
Mr. Patterson, whose work placed the proposition on such a satisfactory basis, continues his residence in this city although the greater part of his time is spent along the route of the new road."

Robbins from deah Boston thinks
Braino "flat as a pan-cake, bah

Haderman Barn Burned

The large barn on the property of
R. C. Haderman, Esq., on West Pitt

pieces of machinery were consumed.
The loss amounts to about $1,200.
Mr. Haderman carried $500 insurance in the Urban Mutual. The fire is supposed to have originated from a passing traction engine.

FIRST PASSENGER TRAIN

Over New Railroad to Be Run By Pittsburgers.

In order to enjoy the distinguished honor of running the first passenger train over the Bedford & Holidays-burg Railroad, better known as the Midland, a change in the route of the tenth trade extension tour of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburg has been made. On Thursday, May 26, the big train of Pullmans and diners will leave Altoona in the morning and go first to Huntingdon. Then it goes back to Tyrone and Altoona, from whence it goes to Holidaysburg and Bedford. It promises to be a great event and will make a page in the history of some of the communities.

SAM. F. SIPE, Vice Chairman,
Trade Extension Committee.

"We look forward to the greatest trip we have ever taken," says Sam
F. Sipe, vice chairman of the trade extension committee. "All the towns and cities we expect to visit and pass through have live and energetic merchants. From all points along the line come reports that our friends,
old and new, will be glad to see us.
Of course, it goes without saying that we are also delighted to take advantage of the opportunity. There will be more business men of the wholesale, jobber and manufacturer variety on this trip than on any preceding one.
We are going through a section of the country that abounds in the most magnificent scenery in the world, and during the latter part of May it will be at its best. Everything looks very promising."

$3.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK KIDNEYS FREE

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K 321 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, the recipe contains only pure harmless remedies, but it has a great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

RECIPES*Rhubarb Pie

One cup chopped rhubarb (all solid, no juice), one cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, one dessertspoonful of flour; mix well and flavor with lemon extract. Beat two whites and brown. If you do not care for the meringue on top use only one egg. Tastes like lemon pie.

Rolls Oat Gems

One and one-half cups bread flour, half cup cold, cooked rolled oats, one tablespoon butter, one heaping tablespoon sugar, quarter yeast cake dissolved in half cup tepid water, one teaspoon salt. Mix butter, sugar, salt and dissolved yeast cake with the flour. Then add the oatmeal. Set in warm place and bake in the morning. This quantity makes a dozen gems.

Spiced Rhubarb

Peel and slice two and one-half pounds of rhubarb; sprinkle one pound of sugar over it and let it stand over night. In the morning drain off the syrup and add one cupful of sugar and one-half a cupful each of vinegar and water. Drop into this syrup small bags filled with a mixture of spices, one-third of a teaspoonful each of cloves, mace, allspice and ginger, and one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Boil until the syrup begins to thicken, then take out the bags and add the rhubarb and cook one hour. This keeps well and is a delicious relish with cold meats.

Overcooked Food

Much good, wholesome food is practically wasted by being overcooked. Overcooking is the principal objection to canned meats, because food that is otherwise excellent in quality has been spoiled in the process of cooking, and has, therefore, become practically unfit for use. Meat must be cooked to a certain point, but once that point is reached further cooking is downright waste of material, both as regards quality and quantity. Good food is often spoiled by too rapid cooking. Meat which is allowed to boil after the preliminary five minutes becomes hard, tough and tasteless, and is almost indigestible, owing to the hardening of the albumen all through the meat.

JUST IN TIME

Some Bedford People May Wait Till It's Too Late.

Don't wait until too late. Be sure to be in time. Just in time with kidney ills. Means curing the back. Before backache becomes chronic. Before serious urinary troubles set in.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this. Here is testimony to prove it. Mrs. H. E. Sproul, Clarence Street, Hyndman, Pa., says: "I was afflicted with kidney complaint for some time and it seemed as if there were no relief for me. I had nearly all the difficulties that accompany this malady and it would be hard to fully describe the misery I endured. Chills and dizzy spells were common and I was subject to headache. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I began their use and by the time I had taken the contents of four boxes, I was well. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve the highest praise for making this great improvement." (Statement given October 12, 1907.)

Confirmed Proof

When Mrs. Sproul was interviewed on November 10, 1909, she said: "I willingly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills, for I have had practically no trouble from my kidneys since I was cured. Doan's Kidney Pills will always have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. May 6-2t.

Household Notes

A cloth wrung out of vinegar and wrapped round cheese will keep it from molding.

When making soups or sauces if a little flour is added to the milk it will prevent curdling.

A coarse cloth dipped in salt and water, and rubbed over straw matting will prevent it from turning yellow.

Painting the last cellar step white will save many a fall.

Never use hot water to rinse either hands or utensils after preparing onions, as it seems to set the odor. Cold water in abundance is the best remedy.

The secret of appetizing drinks is to have freshly boiled water for hot beverages and water that is freshly drawn for cold drinks.

A ham cooks most evenly on a gas stove, as the heat is more easily regulated. Never use a fork to a ham while cooking.

The flat taste of boiled water may be removed by pouring from one pitcher to another in the open air.

Salt added to starch is responsible for the gloss on linen when it is ironed.

The best polish for engraved silver is whiting and ammonia. It should be applied with a soft brush, then rubbed with cheesecloth or soft cotton cloths.

A few drops of lemon squeezed in the water in which potatoes are boiled, just before they are done, will prevent them from turning black.

When boiled custard is overcooked it may be brought back to the right consistency it thoroughly beaten with an egg-beater.

Do not pile left-over cooked potatoes together as they will sour quickly; spread them out on a large dish.

When you make griddle cakes, beat the milk and eggs together with an egg beater. They will almost melt in your mouth.

Never slam the oven door. Cakes will fall, to rise no more.

—The Delineator.
Vegetables, like beets and green corn, that contain sugar do not keep well and should be eaten as soon as possible after they are picked.

A good way to wash bottles or vinegar cruets is to put crushed eggshells in them and shake well. This will clean the glass well and will not scratch it.

Pineapples should be sliced first, and then pared. In this way the eyes may be removed with less waste. In baking apples it is best to leave in some of the core. This will prevent the juice of sugar, butter and cinnamon escaping into the pan.

SAFE AND SURE

Among the medicines that are recommended and endorsed by physicians and nurses is Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. For many years it has been regarded by doctors as the medicine most likely to cure coughs, and it has a strong hold on the esteem of all well-informed people. When Kemp's Balsam cannot cure a cough we shall be at a loss to know what will. At druggists and dealers, 25c.

Galilee

As I rode slowly down to it over the hills covered with wild flowers and plants and grasses that lifted themselves almost to the knees of the horses, I felt at last: "This is indeed the holy land"—the land dreamed of by the Russian pilgrim on the icy north, and the little Breton boy on the sun-scorched African upland, the land toward which hearts turn from the uttermost parts of the earth, the unique land of promise and of fulfillment. The gesture of the Breton boy came back to my mind as he said: "I shall see the holy land." Surely in a mystic dream he had looked on Galilee. On these quiet waters, far below me, as blue as glass, green, hedged about by thickets of wild oleander and by myriads of unknown flowers, the miraculous feet had walked. It was as if the touch of those feet had given to them peace forever—that marvelous peace at which I now was gazing.—Robert Hitchens, in Century.

WHAT EVERYBODY WANTS

Everybody desires good health, which is impossible unless the kidneys are sound and healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first indication of any irregularity, and a serious illness may be averted. Foley's Kidney Remedy will restore your kidneys and bladder to their normal state and activity. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Give the Best You Have
Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you. Give love, and love to your life will flow.

A strength in your utmost need; Have faith, and a score of hearts will show

Their faith in your word and deed. Give truth, and your gifts will be paid in kind.

And honor will honor meet; And a smile that is sweet will surely find

THE LADIES' FAVORITE

Wherever Parisian Sage is Known it Has the Call.

Parisian Sage, that most efficient of all hair restorers, is a very delightful and refreshing hair dressing. Besides possessing these qualities it will positively make any woman's hair soft, luxuriant and attractive. F. W. Jordan sells it for 50 cents a large bottle and will return your money if it does not cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.

"I had given up hopes of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."—Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

There is No Unbelief

There is no unbelief,
Whoever plants a leaf beneath the sod,
And waits to see it push away the clod,
He trusts in God.

Whoever says, when clouds are in the sky,
"Be patient, heart, light breaketh by and by,"
Trusts in the Most High.

Whoever sees, 'neath winter's field of snow,
The silent harvest of the future grow,
God's power must know.

Whoever lies down on his couch to sleep,
Content to lock each sense in slumber deep,
Knows God will keep.

Whoever says "tomorrow," "the unknown,"
"The future," trusts unto that Power alone
He dares disown.

The heart that looks on when the eyelids close
And dares to live when life has only woes,
God's comfort knows.

There is no unbelief;
And, day by day and night, unconsciously
The heart lives by that faith the lips deny.
God knows the why.
—L. Y. Case.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Increases the price of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

What's in McClure's

Under the title of "The New American City Government" George Kibbe Turner tells in the May McClure's of the rapid spread of the commission form of government; Burton J. Hendrick has an article on "The Skulls of Our Immigrants" which upsets the belief so long held by scientists that the skull was the one thing that could not change; W. A. Du Pay and E. T. Brewster show what the rat has cost us in lives and money, and M. Paoli gives his reminiscences of the Czar of Russia. Foremost in the fiction is an unusual detective story, "The Anthropologist at Large," by Dr. R. A. Freeman, editor of the London Lancet. Other stories are "The Glamour" by Oscar Graeve; "The Blue Pearl" by Neith Boyce; "The Nineteenth Hat" by Arnold Bennett; "The Point of View," another war story by "Ole Luk-Oie;" and "The Education of King Peter" by Edgar Wallace.

THE KINDERGARTEN TOT

It's only just a little tot,
An' all the sense I has I got
At kindergarten with a lot
O' little tads like me.
The teacher stands us in a row
An' makes our arms go to an' fro—
That's how the cate'chenes go—
With "one, an' two, an' three."

She sings us such a funny tune
About the bugs that come in June;
An' tells us all about the moon
An' what we'd do without it;
Just how the moon can shine so
Bright,

Is cheaper than electric light,
An' keeps on workin' every night,
An' makes no fuss about it.

She says the world is big an' round,
An' some is water, some is ground,
An' some has never yet been found
Except by polar bears!
One half the world's a hemisphere
An' 'tother half is—well—Oh, dear!
Guess I forgot it comin' here—
But then nobody cares.

The world is made o' colored maps,
Just so's to puzzle little chaps;
But down inside it's full o' scraps
An' fires you read about!
I heard the teacher once confess
The world was full o' wickedness!
An' that's what makes earthquakes,
I guess—
The badness comin' out.

The world turns round most every day!
Guess that is why the hens don't lay
Their eggs at night for fear 'at they Would all fall out the nest;
'Cause then the world is upside down,
An' we'd have nothin' in the town
But grocer's eggs, an' their renown
Is bad enough at best.

One day a handsome man came in,
Who wasn't either kith or kin,
For teacher blushed down to her chin
When he sat down beside 'er.
His uniform was brownish stuff,
Had leggins an' a yellow cuff;
She couldn't look at him enough,
An' called him her "Rough Rider."

She bade us all go out an' play,
But I stayed in an' heard her say—
"They didn't shoot your arm away
When you were in the South!"
He whispered in the teacher's ear
The longest while an' then, for fear
Her telephone was out o' gear
He whispered in her mouth!

He put his arms, I must confess,
Around her shoulders, more or less;
They call it "Shoulder Arms," I guess,
When they have got a gun.
Of course, she took it very cool
For teachers always, in the school,
Keep harpin' on the Golden Rule:
To do as you'd be done.

He saved his country in the strife,
An' once again he'd risk his life,
By takin' to himself a wife
An' save the pretty creature.
It seemed to me so very plain—
In spite of fever an' the rain—
That while "Rememberin' the Maine"
He'd not forgot the teacher.

—Fred Emerson Brooks.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley's Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Ed. D. Heckerman.

Laundrying Table Linen

The cheapest and most ordinary table linen may be made to take a sheen as beautiful as the finest damask by ironing in this way: After linen has been carefully washed, boiled and rinsed, wring dry as possible and roll up in a dry sheet and leave for one hour. Iron till thoroughly dry. The linen escapes the wear and tear of swinging on line and keeps its shape better.—Woman's Home Companion.

Running Upstairs

It may be effective.
But it is bad for women.
Physicians say we should walk up. It is not well to go on the toes.
The sane way is to set both the heel and toe on each step.
In short, it is to one's advantage to walk up instead of tripping.

Pimples, Blackheads, Eczema, Etc. QUICKLY CURED.

"It is astonishing," remarked a well known authority on Diseases of the skin, "how such a large number of people, especially ladies, are, by attractively written advertisements, induced to purchase some one of the many so-called Beauty Creams now on the market, not knowing, of course, that they mostly contain only or greasy substances that clog the pores of the skin and are, for that reason, the very worst thing that they could possibly use. My treatment of Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all eruptions of the skin, is as follows, and has invariably proved very successful: Wash the face carefully every night before retiring with warm water and a little oat meal tied up in a small cloth bag, then, after drying well, use the following inexpensive and perfectly harmless prescription, which can be filled at any Drug Store: Clearola 1/2 oz., Ether 1 oz., Alcohol 7 ounces. Use this mixture on the face as often as possible during the day, but use night and morning anyway, allowing it to remain on the face at least ten minutes, then the powdery film may be wiped off. Do not wash the face for some little time after using. By following this simple treatment, you will soon have a clear, Brilliant Complexion."

Feeding Silage

In feeding silage to dairy cows the mangers should be clean and no silage allowed to accumulate. Feed no musty or moldy silage; feed it only after milking and keep the cows' stable well ventilated for the escape of moisture and unpleasant odors. If you have never fed any silage before, give only a very small amount at first to each animal, and increase the amount of feed only as you learn the effects.

CHINESE FANMAKING.

The Industry Carried on in One District For Centuries.

The fanmaking industry in China was started centuries ago in the village of Pengshow, at Ampow, about three miles from Swatow. It was formerly confined to women in various households, but for many years past every family in the village has been devoted to the work, all the members of the families being occupied in the manufacture. Only the open fan is manufactured in this district.

For the frame the split bamboo is repeatedly rived until each piece is sufficiently slender and flexible. There threadlike pieces of bamboo are arranged in a row, attached to each other by a thread passed crosswise through the middle. This thread is fastened to a semicircular strip of bamboo, giving the fan its shape. The ribs are then slightly heated and bent at the ends. The fan has now the peculiar and characteristic shell-like shape at the top. Very fine silk gauze is then pasted on the face and a kind of tissue-like paper on the back.

After the handle is attached the border of the fan is black varnished and the gauze is coated with a chalk and water mixture. The handles are made of bamboo, various kinds of hard wood, bone and ivory. The hand painting on the fans is cleverly done, in some instances being works of art.—Exchange.

A FAITHFUL FRIEND.

The Secret of His Loyalty to the Condemned Man.

A negro was executed in a prison not many hours' journey from the city not long ago, says the Philadelphia Times. For several months prior to his departure he had been visited by a faithful friend who brought him chicken, possum, sweet potatoes, cigars and other things.

The bearer of these good things seemed to be under some trouble. It was suspected that he had some intimate knowledge of the crime for which the other was to be executed. The secret came to light on the morning of the execution, when one of the guards overheard this conversation between the two men:

"Now, Jim, didn't I done do everything I could for you?"

"Yes, Bill, you has sho' fulfilled all ob yo' obligation an' squared 'counts fo' dem crap games, an' I sho' is 'bliged to yo'."

"And, Jim does yo' swear that yo' won't come and ha'nt me after yo's done gone ar' been hanged?"

"No, Bill; yo' has sho' acted like a man an' a brudder, an' I ain't low down mean 'nuff to ha'nt yo' now, but ef yo' hadn't brung me dem things when I told yo' I sho' would ha'nted yo' every night of yo' life, an' don't yo' forget it."

Yellow Fever.

"Every one knows that when a man has once had yellow fever and recovers he never contracts the disease again, no matter how much he exposes himself to infection," said Dr. Fred S. Williams of Havana. "This ability to resist the minute organisms which cause the malarial fever is immunity, and in tropical countries where yellow fever is always present it is turned to profit in various ways."

"Thus during the Spanish-American war regiments of immunes were enlisted in the south for service in the fever ridden country about Santiago. Again, during an epidemic in New Orleans many persons purposely exposed themselves to infection because the disease prevailed in a very mild form, and they concluded that if they were infected they would quickly recover and would be immune during severe epidemics in the future."—Washington Herald.

Wonder of Blood Transfusion.

There is nothing more dramatic in surgery than a transfusion of blood—to see the patient take on the rosy hue of health, waken out of his lethargy, show an immediate live interest in his surroundings and actually recover under the eye of the operator. In adults we must not permit the amount transfused to equal the normal for fear of suddenly overtaxing the heart, but in the case of young children who have had severe hemorrhages there may be complete recovery without a period of convalescence, so that at the termination of the operation the patient is well.—Century.

Down and Up.

"That remedy," said a senator of a proposed piece of legislation, "is as impracticable as little George Washington's. George Washington, you know, when his father spoke to him about the cherry tree said:

"Yes, father; I did chop down the tree, but I can easily make the evil good."

"How so, my boy?" the father asked.

"Why," said George, "if I chopped it down can't I chop it up?"—Los Angeles Times.

"I have just made a valuable discovery," announced Timpers.

"How is that?"

Oyster Shell Scale

A correspondent who asked State Zoologist H. A. Surface, in regard to the Oyster Shell scale, received the following reply:

"The twig which you sent us is badly infested with Oyster shell scale. The best thing you can now do is to watch, and when the young hatch during the early part of May spray them with a liquid composed of one pound of whale oil soap dissolved in five gallons of water. The Lime-sulfur wash, made and applied as for San Jose scale and applied before the blossoms appear, should have been sufficient to kill the Oyster-shell scale also.

"This pest does not multiply as rapidly as the San Jose scale, nor does it poison the tree so badly nor kill it so soon. However, it is very destructive to the Lilac, Ash, Soft Maple, Poplar, Willow and Apple, especially in the mountainous or elevated regions of Pennsylvania.

"You will know when the young hatch and commence to crawl by observing the bark and seeing it covered with small milky-white crawlers, which soon fix themselves and commence to cover themselves with a small white scale which later turns gray. It is very important to make the spraying application just at the right time, which means as soon as possible after the young hatch. This is the best time of year possible for the destruction of the Oyster-shell and Scurfy scale.

"Ordinary soap solution will do for this work if used strong enough, but the whale oil soap has proven one of the best and simplest remedies. Ten per cent. kerosene emulsion will be efficient and satisfactory."

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Life

A person who would stand before you and advise you to get the most out of youth—that it is the happiest season of your life—is not telling you the truth. You grow happier as you get older. As I stand before you young folks I don't envy any one of you your youth. I had as fine a time as you when I was young, but I would not go back to my youth for anything. I'm much happier now. I really believe that by the time I'm 80 I'll be having the time of my life.—Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale.

Brumbaugh.

When Cows Are Nervous

If any of your cows are nervous or troublesome in any way at milking time, try feeding them just before you begin to milk. The giving down of the milk is governed by the nerves, and the more the cow's mind is taken from the milking process the less action the nerves will have on the milk secreting glands. Feed will make the cow more contented, which in turn will result in larger yields.

Model Locomotive

Calvin Sheesley of Harrisburg, an engineer on the Middle division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has built out of wood a model locomotive which is credited with being one of the best that has ever been seen in this section. The workings of the model are exactly the same as on the big engines that are in service on the Pennsylvania lines. The piston rods, drivers and other parts are exact replicas in miniature of the freight locomotive. The engine has been viewed by a number of the motive power officials, who claim it is the most complete they have ever seen.—Philadelphia Record.

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alternative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly sixty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.

THOUGHTS BY THE WAY

Under no circumstances, whether of pain, or grief, or disappointment, or irreparable mistake, can it be true that there is not something to be done, as well as something to be suffered.—F. W. Robertson.

People who sit and wait for great moments miss many wonderful small moments, and they are to be pitied.

The tidal wave of deeper souls Unto our inmost being rolls And lifts us unawares.

—Longfellow.

Never yet was the voice of conscience silenced without retribution.—Anna Jameson.

The happiest genius will hardly succeed by nature and instinct alone in rising to the sublime. Art is art, he who has not thought it out has no right to call himself an artist.—Goethe.

Under the storm and cloud today, And today the hard peril and pain—

Tomorrow the stone shall be rolled away,

For the sunshine shall follow the rain.

—Joaquin Miller.

It is never too late to resolve to judge yourself by the same standard which you use in judging other people.

Life is too short for logic; what I do I must do simply; God alone must judge—

For God alone shall guide, and God's elect.

—Kingsley.

You are true-hearted, and you want to be true, and are trying to be; learn these two things: never be discouraged because good things get on so slowly here; and never fail daily to do that good which lies next to your hand.—Geo. Macdonald.

For More Than Three Decades

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opiates and no harmful drugs. None genuine but Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

The Pleasures of the Unknown Road

The pleasures of the unknown road are many and varied. First among them, of course, is the pleasure of the curve. I have taken a curve in an automobile. Doubtless it was a very beautiful curve, but what I was aware of was a hoarse honking, a lurch, the crunch of gravel, the mutter of the owner about tire repairs and "these abominable country roads;" and then the renewed monotony of watching a white ribbon rushing to meet me. That is not the way to know the pleasure of the curve. As you approach it on foot, you pause. You notice first, perhaps, the beauty of its line, a living line swept on the green canvas of the earth with one sure turn of a giant wrist. Then you notice anew the wayside foliage, thrown into prominence ahead because, on the curve, you face it. There is every shade of green, from blackest fir to brightest emerald. The hemlocks bank their layers of rich, heavy shadow, behind them rises a birch in virgin white and frail, translucent green; and behind that a giant chestnut thrusts up boldly against the blue sky. Perhaps between is a glimpse of the mountains, or a pasture ridge. Then you let your eye follow the curve of the road once more. It flows with its beautiful line, checkered with shadow, into the woods, through the Gate of the Cedars. And here the mystery allures once more. What lies beyond that curve? What vista awaits down the cool aisle of the evergreens? How far and how well will you fare? So then you resume your tramping, and, it your stride is good and you possess imagination, as you swing around the curve you can get the thrill of it, that peculiar thrill of counteracting centrifugal force, without resort to a motor-car, and without the sacrifice of those delicate beauties and quiet allurements of the bended road.—From "Roads," by Walter Prichard Eaton, in the May Scribner.

Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative and a prompt corrective of all urinary irregularities. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

FARM NOTES

Feed a fattening pig all he will eat. If the appetite is kept keen, the digestion and assimilation are good.

The dry weather early in the season was just right for turkeys and there will be a larger crop than usual.

Every hog house should be fitted with a properly adjusted ventilating shaft, so that the foul air can escape.

Keep troughs and feeding pens clean. Do not let any feed remain after the meal. It sours, molds and is unhealthy.

To make pigs get thrifty, strong and healthy, there is nothing like clover pasture, milk and mill feed with a very little corn.

Many find enjoyment and profit in pigeon rearing. If it can be arranged, they would give employment to restless boys and girls.

When sheep have to be kept up closer, do not forget that they need water. A good, clean, fresh water supply is essential to healthy stock of all kinds.

Charcoal made of wood is most excellent for hogs as a corrective of the stomach, and where that is not convenient charcoal from coals for them. Wood ashes is excellent also as a corrective.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

Music Epigrams

Music appeals directly to the emotions: it is, therefore, the most vital and most dangerous of the arts.—George Henry Hart.

Music is the crystallization of sound.—Thoreau.

Music is the true universal speech of mankind.—C. J. Weber.

Secular music should be essentially light and gay.—Goethe.

Music stands in a much closer connection with pure sensation than any of the other arts.—Helmholtz.

The Rainy Season

An umbrella is a personal piece of property that everybody needs in the rainy as well as the sunshine season and if you have a good one—the kind we sell—your friends will be careful to return it. It seems odd, but our personal experience has been that it is easier to keep a GOOD umbrella than an ordinary one. And this statement is not made with a selfish end in view but made truthfully. Have you tried both kind? Let us sell you an umbrella of quality—silk covered—silver, gold or horn handles from $2.00 up.

Bedford Gazette

ESTABLISHED IN 1803

S. A. VAN ORMER,
Editor and Publisher.

The Bedford Gazette is a model among country newspapers.—New York World.

The Gazette is the leading newspaper of Bedford County and its circulation is far ahead of any of its contemporaries. As an advertising medium it is one of the best in this part of the state.

Regular subscription price per year $1.50, payable in advance. Cards of Thanks, 50c; Resolutions, $1.00.

All communications should be addressed to

Gazette Publishing Co.,
Bedford, Pa.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1910.

LEND A HAND

The local Board of Trade is to be commended on the effort it is making to secure industries for Bedford. We need them, and the organization that is trying to secure them should have the encouragement and support of every citizen of the town.

Boards of Trade have literally made other towns and there is no reason why the local organization cannot do much for Old Bedford if the people of the town will but lend a hand. But pure as the air is that we breathe, and healthful, the Board of Trade cannot take options on manufacturing sites and purchase ground, when necessary for the same—on wind. The committee appointed to secure options must have something with which to purchase the same, and to supply this want subscription papers will be circulated. Those who subscribe will be asked to pay only the necessary percentage to secure an option or make a purchase, and not until such option is secured or such purchase is made.

The Board of Trade now has comfortable quarters in the Brode Building, sufficiently large to accommodate a larger membership than at present and every business and professional man in the town should be enrolled as a member.

When the subscription paper is presented to you, do your part, and by so doing help the committee and the organization to further the work that has been outlined.

Let us all awake and make Bedford a place that will be recognized upon the map of the state. Lend a hand!

INTO PENROSE'S HANDS

The expected has happened! Papers are being signed to place the name of Hon. William C. Miller on the ticket at the coming primaries as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator.

The Anti-Saloon League has again blundered, whether purposely or not we are not in position to state. They have endorsed one William H. Miller, a local optionist in Somerset County, while in this county they have endorsed J. W. Endsley. They have turned the cold shoulder to Amos W. Knepper, who voted at next to the last session of the Legislature to place the local option bill upon the calendar and at the last session voted for the Fair bill. He has been tried and has proved true but the local optionists didn't endorse him, why, alas, we know not!

By the action of the committees in the two counties in endorsing Miller (W. H.) and Endsley they have so ordered that there is a good, broad highway on which Senator Miller, Penrose's man, may walk unmolested into the nomination. They work in rather mysterious ways to accomplish their ends, or perhaps the ends of a Master Hand.

Kindness to Mother

Boys, be kind unto your mother,
Tho' she's old and getting gray—
Try to make her days more peaceful,
She'll not be long with you to stay.

There are many ways to cheer her
As she reads her weary way—
Treat her kindly while you have her,
She'll not be long with you to stay.

Though she's thin and feeble growing,
And has almost had her day—
You can give her days of pleasure,
She'll not be long with you to stay.

When you're off so distant from her,
Write her letters in this way—
Tell her just how much you love her,
She'll not be long with you to stay.

—Lizzie M. Gump.

The Gazette $1.50 per year to all.

Huston Guilty

Harrisburg, April 29.—Joseph M. Huston, the "boy dreamer" and "chaser of rainbows, with pots of gold at the other end," who was the architect of Pennsylvania's $13,000,000 House of a Thousand Scandals, was found guilty today of "conspiring to cheat and defraud the Commonwealth." Twenty-five and one-half hours and 27 ballots were required to reach this decision.

Huston is yet a long way from the penitentiary, for delays by appeals, which had been expected in case he should be found guilty, will be increased, probably, by a peculiar finding which was rendered just before noon today. The jurors, through their foreman, rendered a verdict of "guilty of defrauding the Commonwealth" at 11:40 o'clock.

Jacob Myers

At his home in Woodbury on Friday, April 29, Jacob Myers passed away at the advanced age of 86 years, six months and 17 days. He had been a resident of that community since 1864 and was widely known.

Deceased is survived by his wife and the following children: M. L. Myers and Mrs. David Dooley, of Everett; C. B. and S. F. Myers, of Mann's Choice; M. F. and T. M., of Woodbury; Miss Ella at home, Mrs. James Fluke of Pittsburg, Mrs. Philip Burger and Mrs. Mildred Johnson, of Altoona.

The funeral took place at his late home at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Interment in Dry Ridge Cemetery, Woodbury.

STATE MODEL ORCHARDS

Bordeaux-Lead Arsenate Spray to be Demonstrated in 200 Orchards.

Following the public demonstrations on pruning and spraying fruit trees for scale held in the State's Model Orchards during March and April the work will now be taken up of applying an effective combined insecticide and fungicide, viz: the Bordeaux-Lead Arsenate Spray, which prevents injury to fruits and foliage from codling moth, curculio and other chewing insects, as well as the development of rot, scab, rust, blotch, leaf blights and fungus, etc.

An expert from the Division of Zoology of the Department of Agriculture will be in charge and will show the proper methods of mixing and applying the spray materials and answer questions as well as identify specimens. The public is cordially invited to attend. The dates of the meetings in this county are as follows:

Monday, May 16, orchard of Top Roland near Chapman's Run; Tuesday, May 17, orchard of W. S. Madore near Hyndman; Friday, May 13, orchard of Hon. John M. Reynolds near Reynoldsdale; Saturday, May 14, orchard of J. Wilson Weaver near Saxton.

Found Dead in Barn

The dead body of Charles L. Pugh was found last Saturday morning, April 30, in the barn of Joseph Martin at New Baltimore. He had left Schellsburg on Thursday and when he failed to return home a search was instituted.

Two sisters survive him: Mrs. Henry McKinney of Fyan and Mrs. Walter Manges of near Bucks-town. The funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at Schellsburg by Rev. C. Gumbert. Interment at that place.

Both Saved Gallons

Devoe is worth $4 or $5 a gallon, put-on; how much is another paint worth?

Depends on how many gallons you've got to put-on, to be equal to one of Devoe.

Mr. J. J. Hall, Sheffield, Pa., painted two houses one coat, five years ago, lead-and-oil, took 40 gallons.

Last summer bought 40 gallons Devoe for same houses; had 10 gallons left.

Mr. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses exactly alike; painted one with Devoe; took 6 gallons. The other with some other; took 12 gallons. What'd you give for those off paints? Bear in mind, you've got to pay for the painting.

"As Your Fellows See It"

If you judge a man by the clothes he wears—as nine out of ten men unconsciously do, what then about jewelry? Isn't a man who wears cheap jewelry as surely labeled "cheap" as if the word were written on his shirt front in letters of crimson. The touch of refinement that is given by good jewelry—a gold watch, a ring, a pin or a diamond, is unmistakable and it is the reason why good jewelry only should be worn. We keep only the good kind and you will find our prices of a modest profit kind. Diamond Rings from $8 up.

Springhope

May 4—Mrs. John Davis and son visited her brother, Robert Reninger, and daughter, Mrs. George Lepert, a couple days this week.

Miss Ella Hillegass of Fishertown visited Miss Myra Lambert Saturday and Sunday.

George Hershberger and Miss Lottie Miller, of Johnstown, passed through here on Sunday enroute to Schellsburg, where Mr. Hershberger spent his boyhood days. They stopped with friends at Fishertown over Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Nellie Clark of Mann's Choice spent last week with her sister, Mrs. George Ferguson.

David Deane is beautifying his property by giving his house a coat of paint. George Keller is doing the work.

G. C. Moore of near Wolfburg spent Tuesday here with his sister, Mrs. William Miller.

Miss Bessie Riseling of Point visited her sister, Mrs. Pierre Hershberger, on Tuesday.

The Male Quartet of Fishertown, under the leadership of Jacob Hoover, rendered several selections after church Sunday evening which were very much enjoyed by local people.

During the last three or four weeks your correspondent has received about a half-dozen letters from whiskey dealers in Cumberland advertising their goods. If every person to whom they send letters would think as I do they would be wasting a lot of paper and printing, besides postage, for which they will never realize any profit. It is too bad license has been shut off so many places in our own county and that just over the border-line it can be secured by the jug and shipped anywhere. The writer hopes that the day will come ere long when it will be done away with entirely.

Blaine Harbaugh and friend, of Pleasantville, were visitors in our town Saturday night and Sunday.

Trinity Lutheran Church

Sunday School 9:45; there is still room for more. "Mothers' Day" will be observed Sunday, May 8. I would like to see all wearing a white carnation, or any flower; and best of all, having a thankful heart for the blessing of a good mother.

If this is done it will make our mail service very much better than at present, it will be earlier and daily from the west side of Chestnut Ridge. It now takes two and sometimes three days to get a letter from New Paris to patrons on this route. Hooker.

Home Course In Live Stock Farming

XVI.—Feeding Beef Cattle.

By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture," "Making Money on the Farm," Etc.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

THERE are two general methods of making beef. The first consists in crowding the calves from birth until they are about eighteen months of age, when they are marketed as baby beef. The other method is to buy up young stuff, feed it for a few months and sell it for what it will bring. The bulk of these feeders is bought in the fall as two-year-olds and fed through the winter. Some are bought as yearlings and kept a year on rough feed and pasture before they are put into the feed lot.

Baby Beef.

With the lessening size of the ranges and consequent smaller supply of western feeders, it is becoming more necessary for the farmer to raise his own cattle. Where this is done it will usually be most profitable to sell them as baby beef, thus avoiding the expense of keeping them until three years old. Good dual purpose cows are usually used to produce baby beef animals, since it is too often a losing proposition to keep a cow a year for the calf alone. Where the calves are being raised for breeding purposes and sell for a substantial advance over market prices they may be allowed to run with their mothers and live on new milk. This is too expensive a feed for beef calves, however. As soon as the calf is a week old it should be gradually changed from whole to skim milk, according to the plan given in article 8. As soon as possible the calves should be taught to eat shelled corn, with perhaps a few oats mixed with it. With clover or alfalfa for roughage, shelled corn alone does very well. The calves should be given all the rough feed they will eat, as by developing a large capacity when young greater gains can be obtained later.

From the standpoint of milk production it is best to have the calves come in the fall, but if cheap gains on the calves is the main point sought spring calving is preferable. In this way the calves will have to be kept through but one winter, and two summers of cheap gains on grass can be obtained. If the calves come in the spring they should be turned on grass as soon as possible. A shady pasture, with an occasional spraying for flies when they are bad, will add to the gains. Some grain should be fed all summer, the amount being controlled largely by the price. Heavy grain feeding increases the rate of gain, but adds to the cost. Grain feeding should continue throughout the winter, with the addition of plenty of clover or alfalfa hay and a little silage or roots, if such feed can be had.

One of the best ways to feed to corn at this time is to snap it and run it through a slicer. There is a freshness about snapped corn that makes the cattle relish it a great deal more than they do corn that has been husked. The feeding value of the husks amounts to considerable too. A little oil or cottonseed meal added to the ration will cheapen the cost of gain if corn is high in price. The most rapid gains are made where alfalfa or clover forms the only roughage, fed at the rate of about three pounds of hay to one of corn. Adding a little cheaper roughage reduces the cost of gain, however. Part of the clover may be replaced to advantage by silage.

The feed given should be liberal, as calves tend to grow rather than to fatten. This tendency is especially evident in calves of "scrub" ancestry. The feeder should endeavor to make them grow and fatten at the same time, never losing the "calf fat." During the early part of the second summer, when the grass is at its best, the grain feeding may slacken somewhat, but should be increased again after a month or so until the calves are getting all they will clean up. The proper time to market will depend largely upon the price and the finish of the cattle. A little extra finish adds considerably to the price.

In experiments that have been carried on to determine the relative cost of gains it has been found that gains can be put on yearlings from 25 to 30 per cent cheaper than on two-year-olds. Objection is sometimes made to baby beef raising on the ground that the cheap roughage, such as cornstalks and straw, cannot be disposed of in this way. This is true, but the cows will use a large part of this feed, and the rest can be turned into bedding and used to swell the size of the manure pile. There are some advantages in feeding older cattle, however. They gain faster and more uniformly and put on a better finish.

Feeding Older Cattle.

Where two-year-olds are to be fed they must usually be purchased. Occasionally a few can be picked up in the neighborhood, but if any number are wanted they will have to be bought on the general market. In order to make a profit in feeding there must be a margin between the cost of feeders and the selling price of fat animals. It the fat steer sells for $1 a hundred-weight more than he was bought for, each hundred pounds of his original weight has been increased in value $1. It is in this way that most of the profit in feeding is obtained.

Buying feeding cattle right is one of the most important factors to success in the cattle business. Large cattle can be safely purchased on a narrower margin than lighter ones, since there is more weight to be increased in value. For instance, a margin of $1 on a 700 pound steer would mean an increase in value of $7. On a 1,200 pound steer the margin would need to be only 60 cents to produce the same amount. Another general principle is that the lower the price at which the feeders are bought the greater must be the margin. Of course the margin in any case can be only estimated, since the selling price cannot be foretold to a certainty in advance.

In selecting feeder steers there are a number of points to be kept in mind. One of the most important of these is uniformity. A bunch of steers that are uniform as to size and quality will feed better together and bring a better price when fattened. The feeders should come as near the beef type as possible—short face and neck, deep body, well sprung ribs, broad back, straight top and under line, long rump, fairly short legs. The steer with a sway back or flat ribs should be avoided. A sway back will never become thickly covered with flesh, and a narrow one cannot carry as much meat as a wide one. Since this is where the highest priced meat is found, this point will be an important one. In addition to this, the steers should have good constitution and large digestive capacity without being panicky. Too large a paunch lessens the percentage of dressed beef that the animal will kill out, while a steer that is "tucked up" in the flank will never make good gains. If any of the cattle have horns they should be deborned at once after getting them home.

The usual method of getting cattle on feed is to hurry the process as much as possible, getting them on full feed within fifteen to thirty days from the time they were first put into the feed lot. Where the cattle are to be on feed but a short time, say ninety days, this is undoubtedly the best method. It is not economical, however. Larger amounts of grain will be used with less roughage. The gains grow smaller toward the end of the feeding period, as the cattle begin to tire of the heavy rations. Where this plan is followed the safest plan is to chaff the hay with a feed cutter and mix the grain with it. Some oilmeal should be used to balance the corn.

A more profitable plan usually is to start in more slowly, taking as long as sixty days to get the cattle on full feed. The main feed during this preliminary period and much of the later period as well may be snapped corn. Considerable silage may be fed to advantage during the first part of the feeding period. If fed silage during the finishing period they will not smooth up as well, ship as well or sell as well.

This plan of using a lighter grain ration and a longer feeding period produces cheaper gains down to a certain point. By the end of sixty days the cattle should be on full feed and should receive nearly all they will clean up from that time on. They are in better shape to stand crowding than if they had been pushed from the start and will continue to make satisfactory gains up to the end of the feeding period. Some oil or cottonseed meal should be given during the last thirty days, as it not only cheapens the cost of gains, but also adds to the finish. Where there are hogs following cattle, grinding feed will seldom pay, with the possible exception of the last two or three weeks.

Experiments in feeding for a long period compared as to profits with feeding for a short period have shown that if roughage be relatively more plentiful and cheaper than meal then the "long feed" is the more profitable.

FIG. XXXI.—GOOD ANGUS STEER.

but where meal is plentiful and roughage scarce then the "short feed" is likely to be more profitable.

Experiments in feeding lots of an inferior class of steer in comparison with lots of a medium class of steer and lots of a superior class of steer go to show that the superior class give greater returns for feed fed, make greater gains in a given time and sell for a higher price than do the inferior class.

Feeding steers twice a day rather than more frequently has been found advisable. Feeding a succulent ration has been found to be cheaper and more wholesome than an all dry feed ration. Mixing roughage and meal seems to give better results than feeding them separately.

HALLEY'S COMET

As Seen by Rev. Apple From Daniel Scholl Observatory.

Halley's comet was sighted early on the morning of the 30th at the Daniel Scholl Observatory at Franklin and Marshall College. It was quite plainly visible in the large 11-inch telescope, in fact, could be seen in the 3-inch finder. But it is far too faint an object to be easily seen with the naked eye.

The comet has changed considerably since last seen in March, having become brighter and more condensed. It looks now more like a dim nebulous star of the fourth or fifth magnitude enveloped in a hazy cloud. It is not likely there will be much of an increase of brightness while the comet remains evening star, so it may be just as well to lose no sleep over it, getting up at unseasonable hours, but to wait patiently until after the 18th of May, when it will be seen more plainly in the evening sky after sunset.

Should any one, however, wish to hunt for it he should look for its rising about six degrees north of the east point of the horizon at about 3:15 a. m. The pointers of the Great Dipper measure about five degrees apart. The length of the summer twilight is against all satisfactory viewing of the comet, and even when it comes into the evening sky the light will still interfere a great deal with the splendor of the comet's appearance. A. T. G. Apple.

"Dingle, dangle, dingle, ding, ding, d-i-n-g," ended the first summons to the factory workers, the last "d-i-n-g" being long drawn out, as though the bell ringer, who was also the night watchman, was becoming weary of the signal which ended and yet did not end his hours of labor. His regular visit to the peg clock in each room was over, but now he must wait another half hour to ring the last summons to the help.

Janet Ratcher was a sleepy head, and, though she heard and recognized the last drawing "d-i-n-g" of the first bell, she made no effort to rise, but continued to lie there, gazing sullenly at the window, through which a faint suggestion of daylight was beginning to appear. Rain was pattering against it, and the chill of a falling barometer had penetrated the room until the mere thought of stepping out upon a cold floor brought an anticipatory shiver, and the factory was nearly a mile away.

Janet was blue. She had gone to bed in that condition, and now she had awakened in the same way.

It was not until she heard a hesitating step below that she sprang from bed, repentant, ashamed, and hurried into her clothes and downstairs.

"Oh, mother," she cried, "you ought not to have got up till I had a fire started! Here, let me throw this shawl around you."

"I was afraid you'd be late, dearie," her mother said apologetically. "I meant to have got up sooner and had something warm for you, but overslept. It's too bad to have to go out on a morning like this."

"Well, I didn't oversleep," confessed Janet, forcing herself into temporary cheerfulness. "I was just lazy and lay there studying about things. Lucky I had everything ready last night. I'll put the water in this shallow pan so it'll heat quicker; then we'll have coffee." She glanced at the clock. "Twenty minutes, and I'll take twelve for me to walk to the factory. No, ma, you needn't put up a chair for me. I shan't sit down. I'll just take a bite and run. Don't you hurry, though. Wait till the victuals get warmed over and the coffee's good, then take your time. I'll help fill up the day. You must get awful lonesome here by yourself."

"N-no, not so very," the old woman answered. "I have my knitting, and there's the cat. But I do look forward to your coming home, dearie."

"I suppose so, I wish"—She paused abruptly. She must not make things any harder for the invalid, who already had to bear so much. She took a few bites hurriedly and in silence, then slipped some bread and an apple into a paper bag.

Janet was all ready, with the hood of the waterproof drawn over until it almost concealed her face, when her mother returned with the slippers and stockings rolled into a small package. This and the lunch she slipped under the folds of the waterproof. Then she pushed back the hood a little in order to kiss her mother goodbye.

"Now I must hurry," she said, "for time's up. Tonight I'll cook up a lot of nice things—an Indian pudding, maybe, and some brown bread. And you know, mother, Sunday's only three days off, when we'll be together most all day."

Outside the depressed feeling returned in its full intensity. The rain beat in her face, the raw wind crept through the waterproof and thin clothing, the road was covered with two inches of soft, clinging mud, and it was still too dark for her to see her way clearly.

The next house was dark. The folks had not got up yet and would not have to any more until it was light. Mary Bosworth, her best friend, lived there, and the morning before Mary had joined her in the hurry toward the mill. But Mary was a very bright girl, who had studied drawing and other things and who was quick and imaginative in sketching designs and novelties. The day before she had been promoted to the position of assistant designer for the mill, and after this she would work in the office and not have to go in until 9 o'clock.

A depression in the road caused her to stumble, splashing the mud up to her waist. Her lips quivered. She was not bright, like Mary. She could not do anything except make Indian pudding and brown bread and coffee and things like that and spin. They did say she was the best spinner in the whole room. But spinning was no good to help one up to anything else. It meant that she could just spin and spin and spin all the rest of her life.

A halting footstep and an eager "Janet, Janet," caused her to slacken her pace a little. A lame girl was limping toward her, a girl younger than herself and far more thinly clad, but the sorrow, pinched face was radiant.

"Isn't it fine, Janet?" she cried gleefully as she snuggled under the waterproof, which Janet promptly opened and shared with her. "I can go along with you to the mill now, and I'm to work in the same room. Just to think I spoke for a job six months ago and only got it now! It was awful nice that Mary Bosworth got her fine place—nice for her and me, too, for it gives me her job. Now I can get a lot of things that mother needs, and maybe next summer I can take music lessons."

Janet drew the frail, happy figure a little closer. A year before, when she first obtained her job, she had felt much the same. And the job had brought her mother and herself many nice things they had not had before. And now she was repining!

Janet's spirits began to rise. After all, she was glad that Mary Bosworth had been promoted. She had earned the place, and she was such a beautiful, sincere, thoroughly nice girl. It was not that she envied or was jealous of her and the book heroines; it was only that she could not go and do something that would make her like them.

The last bell had been ringing for several minutes now, and from its accelerating clangs and tumultuous jingles they knew it was racing on toward its final, "dinglety, dinglety, dinglety," the last notes of which would still be madly vibrating the air when the night watchman darted out, putting on his hat and coat as he ran. His speeding exit would be the signal for the last of the help to slip inside the yard gates, for then they would be locked. Janet and her companions were a dozen yards away when the final "dinglety" sounded and the watchman speeded out, but the gatekeeper saw them and fumbled clumsily with the fastenings until they could hurry in.

On damp days like this the ends ran badly, with much twisting and breaking, and, though Janet was nimble fingered and the best spinner in the room, she had all she could do to keep her sides piced up. Especially was this the case after doffing, which occurred twice a day. With the bobbins nearly full the threads ran more smoothly, but with them empty or nearly so there was greater strain upon the threads, causing them to snap frequently. The doffers piced up the first irregular breaks, but after that the spinner had to attend to her own sides.

This doffing of the full bobbins and replacing them with empty ones upon the spindles had always been an interesting operation to Janet, and she could doff as quickly and neatly as the experts themselves.

There were always two of these doffers, each taking a side of a frame and going up one row and down another until the room was completed. They use small sleds or carriages which could be pushed along the sides by the right knee as they worked. It took about two hours to doff the whole room, and then the doffers were allowed to leave the mill or do whatever they pleased until doffing time came again.

This long leisure between work made the position of doffers a very desirable one, and there was a saying among the spinners that "once a doffer, always a doffer." The present two had held their positions for years.

Soon after the morning doffing the overseer made one of his observation tours among the frames, reprimanding by blowing upon his shrill whistle any neglect of work he found. No matter where the operator of a side might be, when she heard that whistle she hastened back to her neglected duty with apologetic and crimson face. In Janet's alley this whistle was rarely heard. When he came to her now the overseer was smiling. He usually was smiling when he found good work.

"You had a hard morning coming down, didn't you, Janet?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. It was pretty wet and muddy."

"Well, why don't you ask for the Harding tenement? They're going to leave next week, and it would bring you to within a few rods of the mill gate. It's the same rent as your house out there in the country, I think, and would make it a lot easier for you this winter. Suppose I speak to the outside manager about it?"

"Thank you, I wish you would," she said gratefully.

She could leave her mother later and be back to her earlier in the evening, and it would save that long walk during the winter. But, on the other hand, there was the apple orchard at the country place and the big garden and the flowers around the house. Her mother loved flowers, and one of her chief pleasures was to be out among them in the spring and during the summer. And they had planned so many vines and beds for the next year. It was really beautiful out there, while the Harding tenement was only the counterpart of fifty others, without yard or even fence around it. And even if it was cold and disagreeable sometimes that mile walk would very likely be good for her to counteract the mill confinement. What had she been thinking about?

She went straight to the overseer. "I don't believe you'd better speak to the manager about that tenement," she said. "You see, we've got an apple orchard out there and a big garden and flowers, and mother loves such things. I've been thinking it over, and I believe the walking will do me good."

"Yes, I don't know but you're right," he answered. "I'd forgotten the orchard and flowers. But wait a moment," as she was turning away. "About the Harding girl's job of doffing. There's been a dozen applicants after it already, but you know more about the work than any of them, so you are the proper one to have the place. You may commence Monday. You've done your work conscientiously, and I want you to feel the management appreciates it. This job will give you a lot of time next spring to look after your garden and the flowers, and you can get home earlier nights. Your mother will like that."

Janet turned away, smiled happily, but with something choking in her throat that prevented speech.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Second Quarter,
For May 8, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Prov. xxiii, 29-35. Memory Verse, 31—Golden Text, Prov. xxiii, 32—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is refreshing to come to this book of God's wisdom for man's ignorance even once a year. More frequent visits would be better, but we are thankful that a temperance lesson brings us here occasionally, even though it brings us to the same portion every time. Those who study the lessons with us regularly will remember that we see here by contrast the Man of Sorrows, who suffered in our stead, wounded for our transgressions, without any cause on His part, as the only one who can save a drunkard or any other kind of sinner. Looking upon Him as the bitten Israelite in the wilderness looked upon the brazen serpent, the helpless, dying one receives life, and, continuing to behold Him at the right hand of God for us, we become changed into His image until, when we see Him face to face, we shall be like Him.

Continually beholding Him and considering His love, which is better than wine, we are constrained by His love to live no longer unto ourselves, but unto Him who died for us and rose again (II Cor. v, 14, 15). As the eye affecteth the heart and the heart walketh after the eyes (I Sam. iii, 51; Job xxi, 7), so as we consider Him we will be found walking in His steps to His glory.

Contrast Noah and his wine and drunkenness and shame, David and his idleness and his looking upon what was not his with his consequent sin, Achan and his confession, "I saw, I coveted, I took," and away back to Eve and her confession, or, rather, to that which is written of her. "The woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes and a tree to be desired to make one wise, and she took of the fruit thereof and did eat." Had she been occupied with Him who gave her all things richly to enjoy she would not have been ensnared by the enemy. So it has been ever since. As one has said, "He has made us for Himself, and our souls are restless till they rest in Him." Where He is not known it must be a greater or less manifestation of the world, the flesh and the devil in one form or another—the card table, the theater, the horse race, gambling, drunkenness and all the lesser forms of idolatry, for whatever takes the place of God in the heart is an idol. However much of suffering these things may bring, the cry of the unsatisfied heart is: "When shall I awake? I will see it yet again."

It is not to be wondered at that the people of this world who have no knowledge of God should so heartily enter into the service of their master, the devil, and enjoy to the utmost the pleasures of sin for a season, but what can be said of those who bear the name of Christ and even stand in the pulpit as His messengers and yet think it not wrong to gratify their carnal minds with cards and the theater and the novel and such like? The least that can be said is that they neither talk nor act like him who said: "What have I to do any more with idols? I have heard Him and observed Him. I am like a green fir tree" (Ios. xiv, 8). They cannot sing: "Thou O Christ, art all I want. More than all in Thee I find." They are those who do not indulge in openly sinful things, but are simply wise in their own conceit, cultured, refined, intellectual, religious, but unbelieving. Of such it is written, "They are drunken, but not with wine; they stagger, but not with strong drink" (Isa. xxix, 9). The strange thing is that it is possible to be an earnest worker along certain lines in the cause of temperance and yet be drunken after this fashion.

The proverb of the Lord Jesus Christ (His words) is the only hope for the drunkard, and those who know not this remedy know nothing effectual, but are trying to patch up an old garment that can only be mended. There are those who are seeking to put down the drink traffic, to close the saloons, to stop all evil, to purify the earth by their efforts, but there is only One who can do this, and it shall become a reality in His time and way. "What is His name and what is His Son's name, if thou canst tell?" (Prov. xxx, 4). He says, "Whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely and shall be quiet from fear of evil." "When thou liest down thou shalt not be afraid—yea, thou shalt lie down, and thy sleep shall be sweet." "For the Lord shall be thy confidence and shall keep thy foot from being taken." "Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee. Ponder the path of thy feet and let all thine ways be established." "The lips of a strange woman drop as an honeycomb, and her mouth is smoother than oil, but her end is bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two edged sword. Her feet go down to death; her steps take hold on hell." "Her house is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death." "The way of a fool is right in his own eyes, but he that hearkeneth unto counsel is wise" (Prov. i, 33; ii, 24, 26; iv, 25, 26; v, 3-5; vii, 27; xii, 15). Such are a few of the words of wisdom in this wonderful book.

We must see and hear Him only who is "the power of God and the wisdom of God" (I Cor. i, 24) and apart from whom all is folly.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Life in the Great Outdoors

The front cover of the May Sports Afield shows a husky looking fisherman on his way to good bass water. The initial article, by a veteran Texas sportsman, describes in Mr. Baines' characteristic style the outwitting of a wily old gobbler. Wintering on the Mackenzie is a capital paper on life and sport in the Far North; which is followed by a hunting trip up the Nile into Nubia. Of especial interest are: The Tug of War (an incident of the battle of Lookout Mountain); Duck Shooting in Michigan; Trout Fishing in Vermont; Weakfishing on the Jersey Coast; Salmon Fishing in Puget Sound; Sport in Panama; Some Missouri Days Afield; and a strong article by C. B. Whitford on the Weakness of Recent Dog Shows. Your news dealer can supply you; if not, send 15 cents to Sports Afield, 358 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
